5 The SX-70 camera and the film that goes with it, troubled from the start by slow sales, probably won't be profitable in 1975, Polaroid Corp. president William J. McCune Jr. told the company's annual meeting.

He said the shelf life of SX-70 film will be extended to eight months from the current six months. Edwin H. Land, chairman and chief executive, added that Polaroid's eight cents a share common stock dividend probably would be maintained through 1975.

The Budd Co., a major supplier of automotive parts and accessories, has reported substantial declines in sales and profits for the first quarter of the year. The firm reported it lost $3.1 million or 52 cents a year in the three-month period ending March 31, compared with profits of $1.9 million or 29 cents a share in the same quarter last American companies think the recession is bottoming out. A survey by the National Association of Purchasing Management Inc., a trade group, said agents found that prices continue to ease, layoffs seem to be ebbing, and inventory liquidation is nearly complete.

"While most indicators are still negative the collective pattern is typical of past periods at the close of a downturn," chairman of the group's survey committee
